THE AUTHENTIC THREE-DAY WEEKEND

Cursillo is one method of renewal for the Church. Its purpose is to lead Christians into a deeper relationship with God so that they can better understand their individual callings to be Christian leaders. The goal of Cursillo is to Christianize our environments through the apostolic action of Christian leaders in all areas of human activity. It does this by providing a strategy for structuring Christian life. (See the NEC and CACS papers on The Fourth Day).

The three day Weekend is one part of the Cursillo method that includes Pre-Cursillo and Post-Cursillo activities. The purpose of Cursillo is not to just bring people to Weekends, but rather to provide help and support to those people in their walk with Christ for the rest of their lives, their Fourth Day, using the Cursillo method. All activities on the Weekend should contribute to providing this support through an intentionally reflective and simple atmosphere. No activities should be secret; candidates should be told whatever they need to know.

To be an authentic weekend it must include the following;

- The celebration of the Eucharist
- Morning and Evening Prayer, and other spiritual exercises
- The 15 Talks and 5 Meditations
- Quiet time
- Personal contact, including spiritual direction

- Prayer time
- Responsive discussions and summaries of table groups
- Apostolic Commitment Service
- Clausura

Some Movements may have tried to add additional features and details (e.g. Stations of the Cross) that contribute to the joyful and spiritual atmosphere of the Weekend, but they should not detract from the purpose of the Weekend. They do not contribute to the goal Cursillo is trying to reach, that is to awaken and empower apostles for Jesus Christ. Consequently any other activities need to be continually evaluated and reviewed by Diocesan Secretariats with the needs, and especially the free time and personal spiritual needs, of the participants in mind.

The tendency has been to overload the weekend with activities, consequently leaving little free time, an essential of the weekend. It (i.e. free time) contributes to mental and physical health, gives space allowing the message to be internalized through reflection, and allows for personal contact with team members.

There must be room for the Holy Spirit to work, for the spontaneous to happen, to foster an understanding friendship with God and the good news of grace, to live in the moment, and for shared joy to become a reality.

The Authentic Three-Day Weekend

On the three day weekend, a team of lay people and spiritual advisors give a series of fifteen talks covering the basics of Christianity. They talk about what does it mean to be a human being, to be a Christian, the very real need to be with others growing and witnessing in faith, and the unique Cursillo means by which this can be carried out. It is important to understand that there is only one talk, with fifteen related parts, and that each speaker realizes just where his or her talk fits into the context of the whole.

Experience has shown that the structure of the talks outlined in the Lay Talk Workbook works. Leaders and team members should be responsible to the purpose and vision of the Cursillo founders and the needs of the people on the weekend.

The participants, secluded away from the pressures of their everyday lives, form a Christian community by learning, praying, sharing, singing and living together. Bathed in prayer and the Holy Spirit the participants hear with fresh ears, learning how to become effective witnesses.

The meditations bring the participant into the presence of Christ as portrayed in the scriptures, and his call to each one of us as his apostles and witnesses.

Personal Contact

Free time on the weekend is essential to developing personal contact between table communities, team members and spiritual advisors. Personal contact includes listening with an attitude of caring and acceptance, friendship and sincerity, with no strings attached, and with only the desire to "Make a friend; be a friend; and bring your friend to Christ". Remember that it takes time to build trust and for the participants to join in open discussion. Candidates must be free to experience as much or as little as they wish of the Weekend, without pressure, relying on the movement of the Holy Spirit for results.
